12 July 1984

Armstrong specializes in the care of infants, children and adolescents.

Dr. Armstrong recently separated from service in the United States Air Force where he served in the medical corps for the past four years. He started as a pediatrician and was soon appointed the Chief of Pediatric Services at the Air Force Hospital at Edwards Air Force Base in California. In that capacity he directed the outpatient services, a level one newborn nursery, and the inpatient pediatric ward at the hospital.

In January 1983, Dr. Armstrong was appointed Chief of Hospital Services, where he directed the professional staff at the hospital. He was in charge of the overall quality of health care rendered in the facility. Dr. Armstrong was directly under the hospital commander in charge of patient care, physician credentialing, the hospital infection control program, and an extensive quality assurance program that was being developed in the Air Force.

While stationed at Edwards, Dr. Armstrong was a part of the medical support team for the space shuttle program. He was privileged to play a part in the maiden flights of the Columbia, the Challenger and the Discovery Shuttles.

Dr. Armstrong graduated from medical school at the University of Utah College of Medicine in 1977. Following his graduation, he completed his pediatric training with the Phoenix Hospitals Affiliated Pediatrics Program where he was Chief Resident during his final year. He has since been certified as a Diplomate by the American Board of Pediatrics and is currently a Fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Dr. Armstrong fulfilled an LDS mission to Southern Germany. Since that time he has served as a counselor in two bishoprics, and Elders Quorum President, and as a teacher in the Sunday School and Primary organizations. He is also accomplished as a piano player, having performed classical music on several occasions.

Dr. Armstrong is a native of Ephraim, Utah where he graduated from Manti High School and Snow College before transferring to the University of Utah. He married the former Carol Kohkonen of Kamas, Utah and they have five children.
